

Michael Cahill

Barrister

Overview

Michael accepts work in all of Chambers' practice areas.

Family

Michael has acted across a wide range of family hearings in the Family Court and High Court. Michael regularly appears in public law proceedings and has experience of representing Respondents accused of chronic neglect and non-accidental injury. Michael has recently secured the successful return of a child to a mother's care against a Local Authority care plan advocating adoption.

He has also successfully represented a grandmother challenging a negative viability assessment in the context of a care plan of adoption. Michael appeared for grandparents in a 9 day matter heard in the High Court which dealt with jurisdictional issues in respect of placing children in a non-Hague Convention state.

Michael acts for both Applicants and Respondents in private law hearings. He has experience of dealing with cases of 'implacable hostility' and has represented Children's Guardians pursuant to FPR 16.4.

In financial remedy proceedings Michael regularly appears in FDRs and Final Hearings. He has dealt with a number of cases involving family businesses and how they ought to be dealt with in the context of ancillary relief proceedings.

Criminal

Michael accepts instructions from both Prosecution and Defence in a wide range of criminal matters. Michael is a Grade 2 CPS Prosecutor and regularly appears for the Crown in matters such as fraud, assault, burglary, drugs and public order offences. He has successfully represented the Crown in a week-long fraud matter which involved a number of contentious legal arguments surrounding the admissibility of telephone evidence.

Michael also prosecutes for Local Authorities and has successfully prosecuted matters of benefit fraud and environmental offences on their behalf. Michael was led as the disclosure junior in Operation Patton (Conspiracy to Supply Class A & Class B Drugs) heard at Newcastle Crown Court over 6 weeks.

He has a busy Defence practice and prides himself in giving sensible and readily understandable advice to his clients. Michael has an interest in road traffic offences and regularly succeeds in both exceptional hardship and special reasons arguments.
